

VISITOR'S GUIDE

Ripley, WV and Beyond

Welcome to The county seat of Jackson County

Right off I-77 Exit 138, Ripley offers a warm mix of comfort, flavor, and true small-town charm. Stay in inviting lodgings, enjoy delicious meals, and browse shops filled with handmade crafts, jewelry, and local goods. Don't miss the historic Alpine Theatre, where you can catch live shows, films, and community events. As you walk through downtown, explore the courthouse square and historic markers from the Civil War Trails, the Blue-Gray Highway, and more. We invite you to explore Jackson County where you will find hidden gems like our Almost Heaven Swing, children's museum, roadside farmstands and mom & pop diners you will love!

As America marks 250 years of freedom on 2026, Ripley celebrates in a big way. Our town hosts the USA's Largest Small Town Independence Day Celebration, bringing a full week of concerts, balloons, races, a festive parade, and fireworks. That patriotic spirit continues all year, highlighted by the Veterans Day parade and Military Honor March each November.

The Ripley Convention & Visitors Bureau welcomes you to stop by the Ripley Welcome Center for additional WV travel guides. West Virginia holds your great outdoor adventures!

Outdoor Adventures

You don't have to go far to unplug. Ripley is full of outdoor fun, from quiet lakes to peaceful streams. The area has more than ten stocked lakes and several streams ready for fishing. Jackson County is also one of West Virginia's longtime leaders for deer and turkey harvests. Kayakers can enjoy over twenty miles along the Mill Creek Water Trail, and more than a dozen hiking paths stretch across the county.

Fishing

Elk Fork Lake features 278 acres for fishing and kayaking. Other popular spots include Rollins Lake, a 40-acre site. Obrien Lake is a 217 acre site located at Statts Mill. Woodrum Lake in Southern Jackson County covers 240 acres with 18 miles of shoreline.
